SIEMENSSTADT

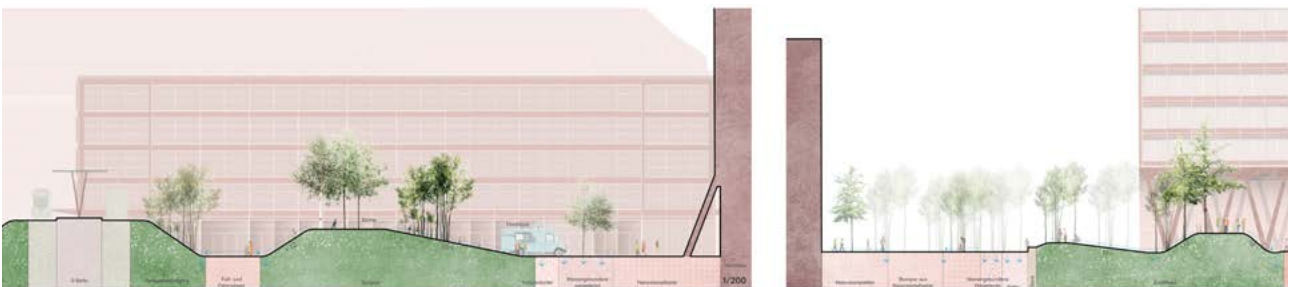

*Hanging out between carefreeness
and the dawning of awareness.
Enjoying the sun between holding on and laissez-faire.
Connected in community...

*A smile from next door, legs
Lifted from the ground, calmed.
Breath at the sight of
others who with me,
silently let the heart wander.*

Progressive climatic changes present us with the challenge of redesigning urban and landscape spaces, necessitating innovative adaptation strategies. In this era of upheaval, a new awareness of the significance of biodiversity, leading to a transformation in urban ecology. An example of this new understanding and the integration of people, nature, and technology can be found in the redesign of the entrance square to Siemensstadt, the „Siemensstadt Square“. Siemensstadt, as a center of innovation and industry, providing an ideal backdrop for this transformation. In the redesign of the central entrance square, POLA utilizes a symbiotic relationship between ecology and technology. The „Eco Wheel,“ the centerpiece of the square’s design, is a „renaturation machine“ modeled after the shape of a gear and located in the center of the square. The gear symbolizes movement, change, and connection. The Eco Wheel thus creates a bridge between the impressive industrial architecture and the small-scale urban nature, connecting the future workers here with the visitors of Siemensstadt in both symbolic and functional ways. Artistic innovation meets natural exnovation; nature reflects technology. The design of Siemensstadt Square demonstrates that sustainable urban development can be not only feasible but also aesthetically pleasing and functional.
